

JASKI GALLERY

AMSTERDAM

(M M) osquito onkey

oil on canvas

2025

45 x 40 cm

A poetic reflection on restlessness and restraint, this short text contrasts stillness with inner chaos. The artist imagines a body unmoving, bitten by mosquitoes yet unaware of pain, while within, a monkey yearns to seize the world—an image of desire, meditation, and the restless human mind.

JASKI GALLERY

AMSTERDAM

Sawatchrokorn Wannasorn

Sawatchrokorn Wannasorn (b. 2000, Chiang Mai) is a Thai–Shan artist living and working in Nakhon Pathom, Thailand. He studied Painting at the Faculty of Painting, Sculpture and Graphic Arts at Silpakorn University, Bangkok.

His work explores the intersection of folklore, mythology, natural phenomena, and human activity. Drawing inspiration from the legends of northern Thailand and the visual language of ancient manuscripts from Lanna, Shan State, Laos, and Isan, he creates layered images that intertwine the seen and unseen, the real and imagined. Through painting and experimental techniques, he investigates forms of coexistence that resist unity yet remain inseparably connected.

Since 2020, Wannasorn has participated in numerous group exhibitions in Chiang Mai, Bangkok, and Nakhon Pathom, steadily developing a distinct voice that bridges political narratives, spiritual traditions, and cultural memory. His upcoming exhibition Tropic Reverie (October 2025) at Jaski Gallery, Amsterdam, marks his first solo presentation outside Thailand.